FOREWORD

The Compiler, through his long association with the American Library Directory (more than fifteen years), has come to look upon the book as representing not alone a list of public, college, special and other libraries, but a kind of combined annual report of the American library world. He takes his cue from the written and spoken observations of librarians themselves. It is therefore a pleasure to note that this 1945 edition is again considerably expanded—over fifty pages—despite the dropping of two features. Not only has the total number of libraries increased (12,140 as against 11,764 in the 1942 issue), but the statistical data has been materially strengthened by addition of salary figures for libraries of all categories, if obtainable, and the restoration of statistics for smaller libraries which were not given in the last edition.

It is confidently expected that the two features dropped from this edition will be restored in the next: the index to memorial names and the notes about microfilming facilities. Both are more or less casualties of the war, and both will appear with new vigor when peace comes. In the meantime, it was felt that so little change could be recorded that the space, particularly of the memorial names index, might be used to better advantage.

As in previous editions, information appears in the following categories: (1) Libraries in the United States, (2) Libraries in the United States Territories and Dependencies, (3) Libraries in Canada and Newfoundland, (4) Library Organizations, (5) Library Schools, (6) State and Provincial Extension Agencies, and (7) Index to Special Collections, Special Subjects, and Special Libraries. As the totals of the categories of libraries have not been previously given, the following will be of interest. Listed are 8,298 public libraries, 1,886 college and junior college libraries, 427 federal and state libraries of all kinds, 324 hospital and institutional libraries, and 1,205 special libraries (including medicine and law). Further notes of each category follow:

(1) Libraries in the United States. This section includes in alphabetical order, first by state and thereunder by city, public libraries, educational and professional libraries, federal and state libraries, and institutional libraries. Statistics for the most part have come directly from the libraries themselves, usually representing the last fiscal or calendar year. Through the excellent assistance of the various State Library Commissions and State Libraries, and some state organizations, information about smaller public libraries has been revised, and the names of new libraries have been added. The list of public libraries, as far as the compiler knows, is virtually complete in this edition.

Each edition of the Directory of course brings its own problems which require solution. In the last, the question of including branches was answered, so far as the editor knows, satisfactorily, though the growing community importance of city branches makes him suspect that it will again appear. Some colleges, particularly of junior grade, were reported closed because of the war; they are listed with the notation if there was no indication of abandonment. Only one category of special library has been shortened: law. Unless there was evidence that it was a law library, not just a collection of law books, it was dropped.

(2) Libraries in the United States Territories and Dependencies. New information has been virtually impossible to obtain from some of this group. Only Hawaiian and Alaskan libraries are represented with new information. The Philippines have been dropped, not only because the libraries have presumably been destroyed but because the Islands will doubtless soon have their independence.

(3) Libraries of Canada and Newfoundland. This section has increased, somewhat. Information about those libraries which did not respond has been taken from the Survey of Libraries in Canada, 1940-42, issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, 1943.

(4) Library Organizations. This section includes state, provincial, and regional library associations and clubs arranged in alphabetical order.

(5) Library Schools. A list of library schools of the United States and Canada is arranged by the short name by which each is best known. Starred entries indicate schools accredited by the A. L. A. Board of Education for Librarianship.

(6) State and Provincial Extension Agencies. This is merely a list of agencies. Statistical information about book collections, income, personnel, etc., appears in the main list of libraries.

(7) Index to Special Collections, Special Subjects, and Special Libraries. This feature remains much the same—varying only in such additions and subtractions as the reports indicated. Special Subjects, i.e., those stressed in the general collections of a library, may or may not have relation to the Special Collections, and may be equally important to research. And to include either of these without also including Special Libraries has long seemed inconsistent. Listing includes both separate libraries and departmental and school libraries of universities. Collections and subjects are presented together, but libraries follow an italic libs.

While there is nothing mystical about a special collection, the universal characterization of one is still for the future. As indicated, there has been little basic change in holdings as reported in the last several issues of the Directory, other than additions. This is interesting, for it shows that librarians, who must in the final analysis indicate what they consider special in their libraries, have more or less settled the matter to their satisfaction. The Directory has, of course, had its share in this crystallization.

But if a collection cannot be easily defined in a sentence, the principles of its maintenance can be stated. Willis H. Kerr, director of libraries of Claremont Colleges, did this so admirably in the Library Journal of March 1, 1945, that the compiler reprints his observations here:

(1) Support a special collection with all the available bibliographies on the subject. Obtain them all as published, check them carefully, and try to get the items listed.

(2) A special collection should develop all important periodical material on the subject. This should be bound, perhaps classified, and indexed if necessary.

(3) Don't build a special collection entirely or too much around the interest of one person, one professor or one friend. People pass; courses of study change; interests change. The library goes on and on and has a responsibility to the past, a duty to the future.

(4) Collect material on the history of the special subject concerned, as well as the subject matter itself. This helps tie the past into the future; sometimes it is the energizing factor in the collection.

(5) Include propaganda, booster pamphlets (I am now thinking about 'historical' subjects), and illustrative material. It will be the historian's job to sift fact from fancy; delight him by saving all the material.

(6) If possible, issue a printed or mimeographed catalog or check list of the collection—once, or several times at intervals. This will be useful inside as well as outside the library doors. It will multiply the use, will bring you many new items, and will generally command respect.

(7) As a general rule, don't rig up a special classification scheme for a special collection. Stick to something that will be good fifty or a hundred years from now.

(8) Give your special collection its own bookplate, and in the call number use a symbol prefix which clearly distinguishes the collection.

(9) A special collection should have a fair chance to live; by which is meant some promise of real support in the budget. Don't start it and then let it die.

(10) There should be a regional agreement about special collections, some assignment and acceptance of responsibility. This will tie the hands of no one, and will help everyone.

Notes of omissions and errors are invited. All reports have been carefully checked, but, as was said in earlier editions, a volume of such elaborate detail can merely aspire to perfection. It is hoped that none of the defects will prove embarrassing. Special thanks are again due the State Commissions and State Libraries for their generous help in supplying information; to name them would be simply to repeat most of the list appearing elsewhere in the book. Others, both individuals and organizations, have been helpful, particularly when the few state agencies could not assist. To all, the compiler wishes to express his deepest personal gratitude.

K. R.

Your Library

from CONCEPT to COMPLETION

THE design and construction of even a modest library involves the integration of many highly technical factors. It is, therefore, advantageous for the librarian to consult with an organization which is capable of assuming the entire responsibility for the project, from planning to completion.

Snead & Company pioneered the development of metal bookstacks and library equipment. The wealth of library experience gained through generations of specialization is at your disposal, and may save you the necessity of duplicating development work already performed successfully by us for others.

Regardless of the size of your requirements, whether for an entire new library or a rearrangement to increase the capacity of your present building, we will be glad to have you consult with our library engineers, without cost or obligation.

MANY YEARS

of Library Experience is Available to You

LET US HELP YOU PLAN YOUR NEW LIBRARY

During the many years we have actively worked in the field we have learned the requirements and preferences of librarians all over the world, and have accumulated a vast amount of practical information and knowledge which we will be more than glad to share with you and your architect.

During these years we have specialized in the manufacture of library furniture and supplies. There have been no other interests to divide our attention.

Whether you are planning to modernize or enlarge your present library — or to build a new library — we will be glad to furnish specific arrangement suggestions. Simply send a blueprint or rough sketch of space available.

CABLE ADDRESS - "BLISSERIAL"

Our stacks are well filled with American and Foreign SERIALS.

We have government documents and the publications of learned and scientific societies, associations, schools, colleges, churches, business firms, as well as newspapers, almanacs and regular periodicals and magazines.

A perpetual record is kept of your SERIAL needs.

We search unceasingly until we locate SERIALS not in our stock.

SEND US YOUR WANT LIST

"Serial. A publication issued in successive parts, usually at regular intervals, and, as a rule, intended to be continued indefinitely."

LOOKING AHEAD

We've never laid claim to a monopoly of new ideas, but pioneering has long been an old Efficiency custom. Over a period of years we have contributed to the advancement of Library Service far more than our share of new methods, materials and equipment.

In 1925 we originated the Dickman Mechanical Bookcharger still said to be "the greatest technical advance known to Library Service." Then followed LEFCO Visible Book and Date cards and LEFCO Datray, then Record and Sturdi-Stock, Irontex, Longtex and Duratex, and now Efficiency Desks and Chairs.

Savers of Time—Labor—Money.

Specialized Lighting for Libraries

SHAPES ILLUMINATION TO THE
BOOKSTACK . . . . . without waste

The prismatic glass construction of Holophane Unit No. 02076 accurately controls the light, distributing it evenly over the faces of the bookstacks—from top to bottom and from end to end. Special attention is given to providing the proper shielding angle guarding against glare up and down the aisle. High output efficiency coupled with utilization efficiency makes this the most satisfactory unit for library use.

OUR WEST SPRINGFIELD PLANT

HERE WE STAND

In libraries abroad, explosions, fire, and pillage are destroying forever some of the world's most valuable literary treasures. We are shocked by the volume and the magnitude of the loss.

In our own libraries a less dramatic loss takes place daily. The war against wear and tear, while more prosaic, is being waged constantly. How are your books conditioned for the battle? We suggest you send them to us for rebinding that we may equip them to endure.

We have made adequate provision to carry on as long as materials and labor are available. We stand ready to help you in this war on destruction by giving full value for your bookbinding expenditures.

BINDERS BOARD IS Unique

When Binders Board is used in the books you buy or have rebound, you profit from more than one hundred years of experience in making board for book-binding purposes. As the result of this long experience in meeting the exacting requirements of fine bindings throughout the development of binding techniques, Binders Board is unique.

Binders Board is the only board used in the binding of books, which is - ——— made on a wet machine—solid board with fibres closely felted produced to full required thickness in one operation—not a pasted board,

- ——— pressed hydraulically—application of intense pressure while board is wet interlocks fibres—adds strength and density,
- ——— kiln or plate dried—individual sheets dried without tension, greater strength and density—without sacrificing flexibility.

It is the method of manufacture which makes Binders Board solid, strong, dense and flexible, and far more durable than any other board that might be used as a substitute. These are the reasons why Binders Board is required in the Class "A" Specifications of the American Library Association and the Library Binding Institute.

Because long life is essential in library bindings and because the number of issues obtainable from a book is the basis of economical purchasing, be sure to specify Binders Board for all your library bindings.

For more than ten years, Binders Board has been made and sold under U. S. Commercial Standard, CS50-34. There has been no deviation from these specifications during the war emergency and Binders Board is now, as it has always been, the board with unique qualities which are essential in library bindings.
